Georgia deserves more than Pathways! You deserve better!

The Pathways program is a broken bridge that lets too many Georgians and too much money fall through the cracks.

The Pathways program is complicated, leaves too many Georgians uninsured, and leaves hard-earned taxpayer money on the table. Georgians deserve better. Luckily Georgia leaders can replace it with a program that is simpler, covers more people, and costs less per person:

Medicaid expansion!

Georgians deserve Medicaid expansion!

	Pathways	VS.	Medicaid Expansion
How many Georgians would newly get health insurance through Medicaid? ¹	Only 31,000-100,000 Georgians		More than 400,000 Georgians
Who is left behind and is likely to stay uninsured, even after the program is up & running? ²	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Stay-at-home parents • Caregivers for aging family members or children with a disability • People in mental health or addiction recovery programs • Rural residents and communities of color where good jobs are much harder to find or may not exist at all • People who do not have good internet at home or do not own a car 		Almost no one!
What does the program cost? ³	$2,490 per person Georgia has to pay for 30% of costs. Georgia does not receive any extra money for Pathways.		$496 per person Georgia only has to pay for 10% of costs. Georgia would earn a “sign-on bonus” by choosing Medicaid expansion. The bonus would cover the costs of Medicaid expansion for 2 years with some money left over to meet the needs of families in our state.

That's 5 times less than Pathways.
